ABSTRACT

A method of apprising a user of print job status includes assessing what portion of a print job has been processed, displaying a status of the print job reflecting the portion of the print job that has been processed, iterating assessing and displaying until assessing determines that the print job has been 5 entirely processed and terminating the print job when assessing determines that the print job has been entirely processed.